PRIVACY POLICY

If you choose to provide us with your name, address and/or other contact information, you are agreeing to permit us to contact you about upcoming store news, events and sales. We will not, however, disseminate that information to any third party for use beyond that which you have authorized, that authorized use being the right for our store to contact you.

Once you provide us with your contact information, we will use that information to notify you by mail, phone or email of any upcoming store news, sales or events, which may require us providing your information to our printer, email blast service and/or other third-party service provider. Our third-party service providers are prohibited from using your information and/or from providing same to any other company or concern.

You may notify us at any time to delete your information from our database and/or to request that we cease contact with you.

We reserve the right to change this privacy policy at any time. Once posted, the new policy will be in effect at the time of posting.
